

GOOD News

A Kids Newsletter from The Gospel Accessible

Kind Curiosity

Did you know?

Some friends have autism, which can make talking, playing, or learning a little different. That doesn't mean they can't have fun or be a great friend!

Kindness challenge: This week, include a friend who does things differently in a game or activity and see how much fun you can have together!

What is the Good News?

The Good News is that God loves us, even when we mess up. Jesus came to show us God's love, forgive our sins, and invite us to be part of His family. When we follow Jesus, we learn how to love God and love others.

With your parents permission you can email me to say hello or ask me a question. -Miss Hannah

hannah@thegospelaccessible.com

MEET A

friend

Madison is a friend who has autism. She might be quiet at first and watch a game instead of jumping in right away.

Sometimes friends like Madison need extra time to join in. You can be a kind friend by being patient, asking how they like to play, and including them in ways that work for them. If you have a friend, sibling, or cousin with autism, you know that being patient and asking questions can help everyone have fun together!