Help Lacy find her friends

Kind Curiosity

God wants everyone to feel loved and included. Sometimes we see someone who is alone or a little different, and we can choose to be kind and welcoming. Jesus tells us, “So in everything, do to others what you would have them do to you” (Matthew 7:12). When we include others in our games, our snacks, or our smiles, we are showing God’s love in a big way! Even small things, like saying hello or inviting someone to play, can make a big difference in someone’s day. You never know how awesome someone is until you take the time to get to know them.

MEET A friend

Danielle

Danielle is a fun and kind 17-year-old who loves being a good friend. She is very loyal and always tries to make others feel happy and included. Danielle loves Jesus and enjoys reading her Bible. She is an amazing singer and even writes her own songs! She also loves to draw and is really good at teaching other kids how to draw fun characters. Danielle has a disability, but it doesn’t stop her from doing great things or being a wonderful friend to everyone around her.

Sometimes having a disability can mean a person does things differently, like talking, playing, or learning in their own way. But other times, it’s barely noticeable—kind of like having a friend who just likes a different favorite color than you. No matter what, everyone can be a great friend when we include them and have fun together!
